

Right: A most energetic tree-planting was in Hong Kong's Sai Kung Country Park, where then-Governor Arthur Au of District 345 led 1,000 Rotarians, their families, and Rotaractors in planting 2,000 trees within half an hour.

STEPHEN WRIGHT

MARTIN JONES COURTESY OF THE CANBERRA CHRONICLE

Above left: Then-President Paulo Costa and Tony Moore, 1990-91 president of Rotary in Great Britain and Ireland, with local children at tree-planting ceremonies in Bournemouth, England.

Above right: U.S. Ambassador to Australia, Marvin Sembler (left), is joined by his three-year old grandson Tayllor, and R.F. Thornton, then governor of Australia's District 971, at a tree-planting ceremony at Pinnacle Nature Reserve in Belconnen, New South Wales, Australia.

JOHN O'BRIEN

Above: U.S. President George Bush is flanked by area school children during the tree planting ceremony on the South Lawn of the White House. Below: Rotary International Director T.D. Griley (left) and Judge Lawrence S. Margolis, 1991-92 governor of District 762, joined "Woodsy Owl" and the "Treasure Teacher" at the National Arboretum.

Thanks to the initiative of Mexican Rotarians, under the leadership of Rotarian Jorge Rojo of District 4170, the children of Mexico City's schools have been planting trees throughout the parks of the Mexican capital, and learning how to care for them.

JOHN O'BRIEN

具有版權的資料